Case Study

Curriculum-Led Budget Planning at The Weald School, West Sussex

The Weald School adopted a curriculum-led approach to budget planning, enabling strategic staffing and resource decisions despite financial constraints. Key strategies included:

- Utilizing detailed pupil attainment data to inform curriculum design.
- Planning staffing structures a year in advance to align with curriculum needs.
- Maintaining a broad and balanced curriculum while ensuring value for money.
- This proactive approach allowed the school to focus on areas that significantly impact student outcomes, even amid budgetary pressures
